Sprint 3 - Individual Status Report

Last week's goals:

Our goals from last week were to work on wireframes and storyboards in order to determine how the app will look like.

This week's goals:

This week, we are creating data flow diagrams to understand how the user will interact with the app and what processes the app will have. We will also be making database models and associations in order to understand how the app will use databases.

Next week's goals:

Next week we are planning on deciding who is going to be the weekly leader and we are going to start making progress towards that app we need to develop.
